(By United Press)
Chicago, July 13.—The middle west today counted its dead at 34 and estimated its property damage at more than $1,000,000 in the wake of wind and electric storms and a severe heat wave.

The heaviest property loss was in central Indiana where a terrific wind and rain storm ripped roofs from houses, uprooted trees, levelled telephone and telegraph poles and flooded scores of cellars.

Five persons were drowned in Iowa as thousands sought relief from high temperature and extreme humidity. Four persons succumbed from the heat in Minnesota where the mercury climbed to 92. Two were drowned and two died from heat prostration in Chicago.

Eight were drowned in Minneapolis, three died in Nebraska and two were drowned in St. Louis.

Although no deaths were reported as the result of the Indiana storm, there were eight deaths in the state from drowning.

CENTRAL INDIANA

Indianapolis, Ind., July 13.—Central Indiana today took count of the damage done late yesterday by the most violent wind storm that has swept the territory in more than half a century.

Early estimates indicate the damage to property and growing crop would be far in excess of $1,000,000. Several persons were hurt in Indianapolis, but no loss of life was reported.

The wind reached a velocity of 80 miles an hour in Indianapolis. It was the highest wind recorded here since 1871.

Thousands swarmed to the lakes and parks around the Twin Cities yesterday.

Bemidji, July 13.—Arguments are being heard today by members of the Minnesota Railroad and warehouse commission on the proposal of the Minnesota and International railroad company to retire station agents at Guthrie, Hines and Turtle River until Nov. 1, 1925.

The hearing today was ordered by the commission when residents of Hines notified the commission they would oppose granting the railroad's request.

Guthrie and Turtle River residents have also aligned themselves with the Hines residents opposing the move.

Swampscott, Mass., July 13.—Promises made to China in the Washington conference of 1921 should be kept in view of the American government. At the same time the United States insists that China shall take adequate measures to protect foreigners and meet her treaty responsibilities. This is the United States' policy toward China as developed in conferences between President Coolidge and Secretary of State Kellogg over the week-end.

Linked with this policy, the United States favors conferences to adjust customs and settle the burning question of extra territoriality in China. It is likely two important conferences with world powers will be summoned in China soon. MODIFICATION ENTERS WISCONSIN
SENATE RACE WITH NEW CANDIDATE

Milwaukee, July 13.—With a modification of the 18th amendment as one of his issues, a new face in Wisconsin politics has entered the race for the republican candidacy for United States senator to fill the place left vacant by the death of "Fighting Bob" LaFollette.

Arthur R. Barry, Milwaukee attorney, is the third and last republican to announce his candidacy. Former Gov. Francis E. McGovern, Milwaukee, and Roy P. Wilcox, Eau Claire, tossed their hats into the ring two weeks ago.

Barry is the first candidate in the field thus far to take a definite wet stand. He declares he does not favor a change in the Volstead law itself, but advocates a change in the constitution, the 18th amendment.

"I am for a change in the constitution to permit the lawful manufacture and sale under local supervision of a beverage containing not to exceed 3.75 per cent alcohol by volume and then for strict enforcement of the law which will have your commendation, and not your condemnation," he said to the voters in his formal announcement of his candidacy. "This question can no longer be evaded. Let us meet the problem in a square and courageous manner, without dodging, trimming or hypocrisy."

BOTH SIDES IN EVOLUTION TRIAL ARE AT FEVER
HEAT

(By United Press)
Dayton, Tenn., July 13.—Where the pent-up emotions threatened to burst the bounds of legal restraint any moment, the trial of John T. Scopes was resumed today. Seven hundred spectators on edge for the crash between William J. Bryan and Clarence Darrow, opposing counsel, which was expected momentarily, shifted nervously on their chairs in the crowded room.

Evidence over the week-end, the bitter statements exchanged by Bryan and Darrow, the resignation of one Dayton pastor, the ban upon public preaching, had served to rouse both sides in the evolution trial to fever heat.

Court again was opened by prayer. Rev. W. A. Moffett, pastor of the First Methodist Church in Dayton, asked God "to guide the judge that he may give wise decisions."

It was stifling hot when Judge John R. Neal, counsel for the defense, rose to open proceedings. Attorneys and the spectators sat in their shirt sleeves, fanning themselves. Neal asked the judge to consider the defense's motion to dismiss the indictment, but Attorney-General Stewart interrupted this by asking permission to question one of the jurors.

This jurymen was W. A. Gentry who had stated under questioning Friday that he had taught evolution in the schools and seemed to be one of the defense's best reliances.

Clarence Darrow objected, but the judge overruled him. The jury panel had not been sworn so the sheriff took the remainder of the jury out of the room and Stewart questioned Gentry who said he had formed no opinion as to the guilt or innocence of Scopes. The attorney-general was satisfied and called the jurymen back.

PUBLIC PREACHING IN DAYTON BANNED

Dayton, July 13.—Public preaching in Dayton is over for the duration of the Scopes trial. A rising tide in the town over religious questions has lead authorities to place a ban on public preaching.

When people raise their voices in argument on the sidewalks and draw the beginning of a crowd, a city official or one of the Chattanooga uniformed policeman will come up with an order move on.

"Talk evolution if you want to—it doesn't hurt me," was the townspeople's attitude heretofore. But a transformation has come about. A bitter contention of the opposite side, a spirit of discord over which scientists shall be permitted to testify communicated themselves to the town.

The authorities acted after one congregation had threatened to break up its church if an evolution preacher was permitted by the minister to occupy his pulpit yesterday.

L. F. Martin, field secretary of the anti-evolution society of America abruptly closed his campaign. He had been delivering three sermons a day on the court house lawn. His pleas were to continue at the same rate throughout the trial, but county officials advised him to quit. He quit with a free will.

"This is the last time I shall speak to you," he said. "Pressure has been brought to bear by the enemies of God and I am forbidden to speak here any longer. I may not see any of you again on this earth, but I pray God we may all meet again in the Great Beyond."

(By United Press)
New York, July 13.—A broken water main which flooded three subways here today caused city engineers to take extraordinary precautions to safeguard property in the vicinity of 5th Avenue and 42nd street that might be undermined by the swirling water. Hundreds of millions of dollars in real estate in that section of Manhattan was indirectly affected. Several streets have been roped off and through traffic barred, pending investigation to determine the extent of the damage. One of the world's busiest street intersections, 5th Avenue at 42nd Street, was the scene of an unprecedented tie-up and city engineers said that all traffic at that point might be barred for another 24 hours.

St. Paul, July 13.—Search was renewed today for Rev. Fritz Hamlin, pastor of the First Swedish Baptist church following reports that a man answering Hamlin's description was seen wandering about the streets in a dazed condition. Hamlin disappeared four weeks ago.

John Tate Raulston, who presides over the Scopes trial, says he guesses no judge ever got so much advice about a case as he receives in his daily mail from all parts of the country. Before court opened he read this choice bit from the day's group, slapping his knee and chuckling loudly:

"Dear Judge: What I want to know is, did Noah put on the Ark flies, cockroaches, bedbugs, sheep, toads, scorpions and rattle snakes? If he did, he ought to have been hung as a horse thief or shot."

"There are 100 species of fish in the world. Did Noah put all these aboard the Ark? If he did he must have put them in tanks and the tanks would have been higher than the Ark and how did he unload them again and get them in the ocean? You have got lots to think about. Don't pay any attention to Bryan—he is a fool and his stuff is the bunk. You will be a fool too if you do."

ARRAIGN LAITY FOR NEGLECT OF RELIGIOUS DUTY

REPORT MADE PUBLIC, TO BE SUBMITTED TO EPISCOPAL GENERAL CONVENTION

FAILURE OF THE CHURCH TO MEET SELF-IMPOSED BUDGET

(By United Press)

New York, July 13.—A severe arraignment of the laity of the Episcopal Church for indifference to their religious obligations is contained in a report, made public today, which will be submitted to the Episcopal Triennial General Convention meeting at New Orleans October 7, to 23. The report is signed by Burton Mansfield, well known corporation lawyer, of New Haven; John Stewart, Editor of the Richmond News Leader; Ira W. Straton, former Mayor of Reading, Pa., and Willard Warner, a well known churchman of Chattanooga.

In the triennial now closing there has been a failure on the part of the Church to meet the requirements of the budget of $4,241,057 adopted at the Portland Convention in 1922; and the financial problem of the ensuing three years will be one of the serious questions the New Orleans meeting will have to grapple with. Church leaders feel that a deeper interest in the work of the Church, particularly in its activities in the mission fields, will result from an awakening among the laity to its world-wide situation. Significance, therefore, attaches to this report of the Commission on Increased Lay Activities.

Need For Lay Interest
"The adequate solution of the problem of maintaining and increasing the active and effective interest of the laity in the work of the Church is essential to the continuance of the life of the Church itself," the report warns.

"No Church, not even thought it were the admitted repository of the pure faith once delivered to the Saints, can perpetuate itself beyond a single generation except by the accession of new members. No hurry, no matter how satisfying its expression and no matter how compelling its appeal, can purify the minds and lift up the hearts of those who never hear its words. No discipline, no matter how sound it may be in psychology, nor how powerful it may be in practice, can mould the lives and strengthen the souls of those who do not come under its influence."

Sounds Warning
"Having made these blunt statements in their preamble, the Committee proceeds to sound this warning: "Without the enlistment of the active enthusiasm, without the release of the spiritual zeal, and without the employment of the missionary impulses of the laity, the Church must, inexorably live a maimed and halting life."

The Committee points to the fact that with the exception of The Brotherhood of St. Andrew, the Episcopal Church has notably neglected the field activity.

Must Organize
"There can be no denial," says the report, "first, that the Episcopal Church has not actively and intensively gone about the task of organizing and inspiring and applying the energies of its laymen, as a whole for the work of the Church as a whole; and, second, that both by reason, by history and by unanswerable examples of other communions a vast source of beneficent energy has been neglected alike for the enrichment of the spiritual life of the individual layman that serves, and of the corporate Church that is so supported."

The report cites action by various provinces and dioceses looking to organized work among the laity, and recommends to the General Convention the consideration of a number of suggestions which it outlines whereby the interest of the laity in the work of the Church may be promoted.

Plattsburg, N. Y., July 13.—Wing-nig over the St. Lawrence valley, a swift airplane today joined the up-state man-hunt for Philip Knox Knapp, college graduate and army deserter wanted for the murder of Louis Panella, whom he is believed to have killed in cold blood in search of a "super-thrill."

Lieut. Marion Elliott and Lieut. Walter Sargent, armed and carrying handcuffs with which to shackle their prisoner if they get the fugitive, flew here from Mitchell Field, to participate in the pursuit. Knapp is thought likely to have made for California or Alexandria Bay where once he joined a bootleggers' band, always seeking new sensations. A lone highwayman who held up, beat and robbed two taxi drivers near Utica Sunday answered somewhat the description of the deserter which has been broadcast. Panella, who was murdered July 1st, was a taxi-cab driver living at Hempstead, L. I.

STATE TAX RECEIPTS HIGH, BUT
ROAD USAGE AND WEAR RUNS
AHEAD OF THE REVENUES

Considerably more than a half a million Minnesota owned automobiles and trucks and thousands of tourist cars from other states are pounding Minnesota roads.

Official figures this week show 525,243 motor vehicle registrations for the first six months of 1925 in Minnesota. Receipts for the period were slightly in excess of $9,000,000 the estimate for the full year.

Gasoline tax receipts also are overrunning the estimate, having totalled $422,717 for May and more than $500,000 in June.

But more cars running bigger mileages are increasing highway expenses according to a highway bulletin.

Incidentally, automobile taxes this year have averaged only $16.40, or $12.17 on A tag machines and $21.25 on B tag cars, all penalties included. The first official figures showed that the average car owner paid considerably less than $1 a month in gasoline taxes, even during the heavy traffic season, and received in return more than $400,000 of extra road work.

According to the latest reports there were 18,000,000 automobiles on June 17. But last night a drunken driver north of town reduced it by two.—Albert Lea Tribune.

Books on Evolution in Great Demand at Library

St. Paul, July 13.—Evolution is proving the most popular topic for readers at the St. Paul public library, since the opening of the Scopes trial at Dayton, Tenn.

Readers are demanding everything possible on the subject, according to Miss Helen Rugg, in charge of the industrial arts division.

"Darwin's Origin of Species" and his "Descent of Man" are in great demand, of course," she said, "but the more popular and modern books are being read, too. I think perhaps the book for which we have the most call is A. E. Wiggam's 'Fruit of the Tree,' which is a great deal more simple to read than the Darwin books. Wiggam lectured here last winter at the St. Paul Institute."

There is also some demand for anti-evolution books, principally those by William Jennings Bryan.

(By United Press)
Dayton, Tenn., July 13.—Where the pent-up emotions threatened to burst the bounds of legal restraint any moment, the trial of John T. Scopes was resumed today. Seven hundred spectators on edge for the crash between William J. Bryan and Clarence Darrow, opposing counsel, which was expected momentarily, shifted nervously on their chairs in the crowded room.

Evidence over the week-end, the bitter statements exchanged by Bryan and Darrow, the resignation of one Dayton pastor, the ban upon public preaching, had served to rouse both sides in the evolution trial to fever heat.

Neal asked the judge to consider the defense's motion to dismiss the indictment, but Attorney-General Stewart interrupted this by asking permission to question one of the jurors.

This jurymen was W. A. Gentry who had stated under questioning Friday that he had taught evolution in the schools and seemed to be one of the defense's best reliances.

Clarence Darrow objected, but the judge overruled him. The jury panel had not been sworn so the sheriff took the remainder of the jury out of the room and Stewart questioned Gentry who said he had formed no opinion as to the guilt or innocence of Scopes. The attorney-general was satisfied and called the jurymen back.

New York, July 13.—A severe arraignment of the laity of the Episcopal Church for indifference to their religious obligations is contained in a report, made public today, which will be submitted to the Episcopal Triennial General Convention meeting at New Orleans October 7, to 23. The report is signed by Burton Mansfield, well known corporation lawyer, of New Haven; John Stewart, Editor of the Richmond News Leader; Ira W. Straton, former Mayor of Reading, Pa., and Willard Warner, a well known churchman of Chattanooga.

In the triennial now closing there has been a failure on the part of the Church to meet the requirements of the budget of $4,241,057 adopted at the Portland Convention in 1922; and the financial problem of the ensuing three years will be one of the serious questions the New Orleans meeting will have to grapple with. Church leaders feel that a deeper interest in the work of the Church, particularly in its activities in the mission fields, will result from an awakening among the laity to its world-wide situation. Significance, therefore, attaches to this report of the Commission on Increased Lay Activities.

Need For Lay Interest

"The adequate solution of the problem of maintaining and increasing the active and effective interest of the laity in the work of the Church is essential to the continuance of the life of the Church itself," the report warns.

"No Church, not even thought it were the admitted repository of the pure faith once delivered to the Saints, can perpetuate itself beyond a single generation except by the accession of new members. No liturgy, no matter how satisfying its expression and no matter how compelling its appeal, can purify the minds and lift up the hearts of those who never hear its words. No discipline, no matter how sound it may be in psychology, nor how powerful it may be in practice, can mould the lives and strengthen the souls of those who do not come under its influence."

Sounds Warning

"Having made these blunt statements in their preamble, the Committee proceeds to sound this warning:

"Without the enlistment of the active enthusiasm, without the release of the spiritual zeal, and without the employment of the missionary impulses of the laity, the Church must, inexorably live a maimed and halting life."

The Committee points to the fact that with the exception of The Brotherhood of St. Andrew, the Episcopal Church has notably neglected the field activity.

Must Organize

"There can be no denial," says the report, "first, that the Episcopal Church has not actively and intensively gone about the task of organizing and inspiring and applying the energies of its laymen, as a whole for the work of the Church as a whole; and, second, that both by reason, by history and by unanswerable examples of other communions a vast source of beneficent energy has been neglected alike for the enrichment of the spiritual life of the individual layman that serves, and of the corporate Church that is so supported."

The report cites action by various provinces and dioceses looking to organized work among the laity, and recommends to the General Convention the consideration of a number of suggestions which it outlines whereby the interest of the laity in the work of the Church may be promoted.

ARMY PLANE SEARCHES FOR PHILIP KNOX

COLLEGE GRADUATE AND ARMY DESERTER CHARGED WITH MURDER

IS BELIEVED TO HAVE KILLED
LOUIS PANELLA FOR A
"SUPER-THRILL"

(By United Press)

Plattsburg, N. Y., July 13.—Winging over the St. Lawrence valley, a swift airplane today joined the upstate man-hunt for Philip Knox Knapp, college graduate and army deserter wanted for the murder of Louis Panella, whom he is believed to have killed in cold blood in search of a "super-thrill."

Lieut. Marlon Elliott and Lieut. Walter Sargent, armed and carrying handcuffs with which to shackle their prisoner if they get the fugitive, flew here from Mitchell Field, to participate in the pursuit. Knapp is thought likely to have made for California or Alexandria Bay where once he joined a bootleggers' band, always seeking new sensations. A lone highwayman who held up, beat and robbed two taxi drivers near Utica Sunday answered somewhat the description of the deserter which has been broadcast. Panella, who was murdered July 1st, was a taxicab driver living at Hempstead, L. I.

AUTO BATTERIES BATTER HIGHWAYS

STATE TAX RECEIPTS HIGH, BUT
ROAD USAGE AND WEAR RUNS
AHEAD OF THE REVENUES

Considerably more than a half a million Minnesota owned automobiles and trucks and thousands of tourist cars from other states are pounding Minnesota roads.

Official figures this week show 525,243 motor vehicle registrations for the first six months of 1925 in Minnesota. Receipts for the period were slightly in excess of $9,000,000 the estimate for the full year.

Gasoline tax receipts also are overrunning the estimate, having totalled $422,717 for May and more than $500,000 in June.

But more cars running bigger mileages are increasing highway expenses, according to a highway bulletin.

Incidentally, automobile taxes this year have averaged only $16.40, or $12.17 on A tag machines and $21.25 on B tag cars, all penalties included.

The first official figures showed that the average car owner paid considerably less than $1 a month in gasoline taxes, even during the heavy traffic season, and received in return more than $400,000 of extra road work.

According to the latest reports there were 18,000,000 automobiles on June 17. But last night a drunken driver north of town reduced it by two.—Albert Lea Tribune.

France is sending some of the Ruhr forces to Morocco to aid in a new drive against the Rifian forces of Abd El Krim.

TOBACCO FIRMS FREED IN PRICE-FIXING CASE

Washington, July 13.—Ten complaints charging fixation of tobacco prices against the American Tobacco Co. and tobacco jobbers in 10 districts of the United States were dismissed by the federal trade commission today. Commissioners Thompson and Nugent dissented from the majority.

The dismissal order said the practices complained of had been stopped early in 1922.

The complaints each named the American Tobacco Co. and tobacco jobbing firms in the following districts: Milwaukee, Kansas City, Erie, Pa.; Columbus, O.; tobacco jobbers and wholesale grocers, Pacific coast tobacco jobbers and West Virginia wholesale jobbers.

Books on Evolution in Great Demand at Library

St. Paul, July 13.—Evolution is proving the most popular topic for readers at the St. Paul public library, since the opening of the Scopes trial at Dayton, Tenn.

Readers are demanding everything possible on the subject, according to Miss Helen Rugg, in charge of the industrial arts division.

"Darwin's Origin of Species" and his 'Descent of Man' are in great demand, of course," she said, "but the more popular and modern books are being read, too. I think perhaps the book for which we have the most call is A. E. Wiggam's 'Fruit of the Tree,' which is a great deal more simple to read than the Darwin books. Wiggam lectured here last winter at the St. Paul Institute."

There is also some demand for anti-evolution books, principally those by William Jennings Bryan.

FOUR DRY LAW VIOLATORS SENTENCED

St. Paul, July 13.—Four men were given 90-day sentences in addition to paying $400 each for violating federal prohibition laws by Judge John B. Sanborn.

Each was charged with possession and sale of liquor, the penalty for the former offense being $400, and the sentence for sale of liquor being 90 days in jail.

Joseph Orth and Lester Milner, Royaltown, Minn., both pleaded guilty and were fined and sentenced to serve a three months' term at St. Cloud. Carl Eberlin, 96 S. Robert st., was sentenced to the Rice county jail at Faribault, and Roy Snyder, former clerk at the Elmo hotel, will serve his sentence at the Ramsey county jail.

Five others were fined $400 each. Eleven cases were continued until the next special term on July 18.

MAKING HOUSES GROW

THE world is unanimous in the opinion that reward and honor is due the man who can make two blades of grass grow where one was the customary output. If the grower of surplus grass is so honored, how about an organization of Brainerd citizens that makes a house grow where none stood before, that enables a man to build an addition to his home, or permits him to make other home improvements.

THE BRAINERD DISPATCH thinks the Brainerd Building and Loan Association is one of the greatest civic undertakings of recent years and that its program, the results achieved and the growth anticipated is something that every citizen should appreciate. This association has no motto, no slogan, but its actions indicate that it certainly believes in building up Brainerd and its record is backed by its works.

The Brainerd Building and Loan association has financed the construction of 28 homes in Brainerd since it started work three years ago. As a rule there are about 12 houses in the average residence block of our city. Twenty-eight new homes means over two blocks of homes for Brainerd. It means 28 more home owners, the best type of citizenship. These are 28 families that take a vital, an abiding interest in Brainerd. The greatest thing, in the long run, that any man can do in a community, is to establish his home there.

Des Moines, Iowa, the other day got a lot of mention because over 50 per cent of its people own their own homes. Brainerd is a home owning community too and we wish that some survey of the future would let us know just what per cent owns its homes here.

The building of 28 new homes in Brainerd, as financed by the building and loan association, set in motion a lot of industries. It gave employment to Brainerd masons, contractors, carpenters, material men, etc. It added more taxable property to the city tax lists. It brought in its train a future demand for other conveniences such as paved streets, sidewalks, sewers, electric light, gas, water, home furniture, home equipment, etc.

The local building and loan association was organized three years ago at a time when the housing facilities were acute. The growth has since been steady and the report sent to the bank examiner at the end of June shows resources of $44,341.35. No solicitation has been made during the past two years for sale of stock, all applications have been voluntary.

The organization has paid dividends of six and a quarter per cent until this period today, when it was increased to six and a half per cent. Checks for dividends are being mailed now. There are now 102 stockholders. The loans made number 28 and aggregating $42,600, also incomplete loans of $2,700.

The appraised value of securities held for the above completed loans is $106,500. The figures above were given THE BRAINERD DISPATCH by the secretary of the association.

In referring to the local association, permit us to refer to an address made by President S. R. Adair of the association, as he reviewed achievements early this year, in January.

He said in part: "In reviewing the functions and duties of a building and loan association we will first take up its duty to its investors. It must furnish them with good and sufficient security for their investments. We further owe the investors a fair return on their investments."

The duty to the borrower is to furnish him with a plan whereby he can build and own a home on terms that he can meet, and at a reasonable rate of interest. There are two classes provided. The Class A plan allows a borrower to pay a loan of $1,000 at a monthly rate of $5 on the principal and $6 per month interest, a total payment of $11 per month (small house rent) and own his home in 13 years.

Class B plan provides a payment of $10 on principal and $6 interest, a total of $16 per month (not large rent) and own his home in six and a half years. There are also installment investment stock plans.

In building 22 homes, it was ascertained the taxable value of the homes is $29,860. The increased taxes payable on them in 1925 is $2,687.40. Every home built increases the valuation of the city and reduces the taxes paid by the other property owners.

GOOD BUSINESS YEAR FORECAST

THINGS look good in the ninth federal district where expansion of business, increases in building activity and material gains in retail trade were noticeable in June.

The bank's summary on banking transactions indicates that the money value of business transacted in 17 representative cities of the district during June was 25 per cent greater than in the same month a year ago and made a new record for the month. Railway car loading was five per cent greater in the first two weeks of June than in the corresponding period a year ago.

Banking business in Brainerd is in a most flourishing condition, as indicated by the recent statements of three banks published in THE BRAINERD DISPATCH, all of which indicate a favorable growth in deposits. When a community is able to save, it shows such town has a rock bottom foundation, that the virtues of thrift and industry are being exemplified.

DAYTON, TENN.

DAYTON, Tennessee, is just like other small towns of America with the exception that it receives daily publicity because of the evolution trial being held there. Dayton has its drug store, its depot where the main line trains stop, its grocery and hardware stores, and a town pump where thousands refresh themselves during the trial of John Thomas Scopes.

The girls are peaches when it comes to pulchritude and wear flapper clothes and the boys use collegiate models for their clothes.

Too much rouge, lack of confidence in other women and lack of seriousness are some of the reasons why women fail in business, said a spinster authority. We wonder how the rouge and lip stick can affect a mail order business.

SOME one painted his house in Cass Lake and the Cass Lake Times concludes it increased the value of the structure at least a thousand dollars.

CROW WING county will have a bumper crop, provided the farmer can harvest it between showers.

Arrange Shrubbery as

Nature Has Placed It

Don't forget to observe nature's way in arranging shrubs, trees and flowers. In the woods you seldom find trees growing in straight lines, stiff and formal. The margins and outlines of woods and thickets have indentations, bays and openings which give beautiful pictures and vistas.

Don't forget that looking from the inside of your home each window should frame a nature picture.

Don't think of home gardening as only a summertime effect. Your home can be planted with hardy, permanent shrubs and trees to secure equally beautiful wintertime pictures.

Don't plant without a plan. It will cost less in the long run.

Don't make the mistake of waiting until after your home is built before planning and planting. You should plant the walks, gardens, borders, etc., before the house foundations are in and immovable.

Don't permit your planting to obstruct the sunlight and ventilation of your home.

Don't needlessly cut and prune trees. A good tree on your building site may be the key to a successful planting plan. A good tree, ten years old, is worth many dollars. Keep it and care for it.

Don't forget that flowers pass quickly, whereas shrubs and hardy trees live on constantly.

Don't forget that your back yard offers as many possibilities in home gardening as your front yard.

Dirt Has No Place

in Up-to-Date Town

Accumulations of dirt, whether in the streets or in the premises, are unhealthful. Also they are unsightly. Also they are unenterprising. A place that looks run down has a lower market value, regardless of its potential value. A street is made or unmade the same way, declares an editorial in the Kansas City Star. There are new, clean, well-kept community centers in the outlying sections that are models of care and examples of co-operative accomplishment. There are others that look as if neither the property owners nor the business tenants cared a rap for their own interests or ever conferred with one another for the center's good. Mean and makeshift improvements, while not insanitary, and almost as offensive as disorder, and invariably they discount the value of the ground on which they are built.

Clean-up day is a fine thing; this year an indispensable thing. But the real thing is all-year cleanliness and order.

How Zoning Will Help

There will be considerable benefit from the increased attention of American centers to zoning if there is a persistent determination to enforce the provisions which zoning involves. The Department of Commerce reports that 320 cities and towns now have adopted zoning regulations and that zoning laws have been enacted or are being considered by nearly every state. Protection, however, does not follow automatically the adoption of a zoning ordinance. Where zoning rights are zealously guarded, there is promise of a better order in the cities that are turning to this new form of building regulation.—Kansas City Times.

Model of Playgronad

A miniature model of a five-acre playground for city children was constructed for the United States children's bureau and was displayed at the meeting of the International Council of Women held in Washington in May. The model contains a swimming pool, a shelter house, two tennis courts, a basketball court, a large baseball diamond, a smaller diamond, a wading pool for little children, seats for the story hours, swings, ladders, flying rings, sand boxes and all other needed equipment. Tiny figures of children engaged in the various sports were part of the model.

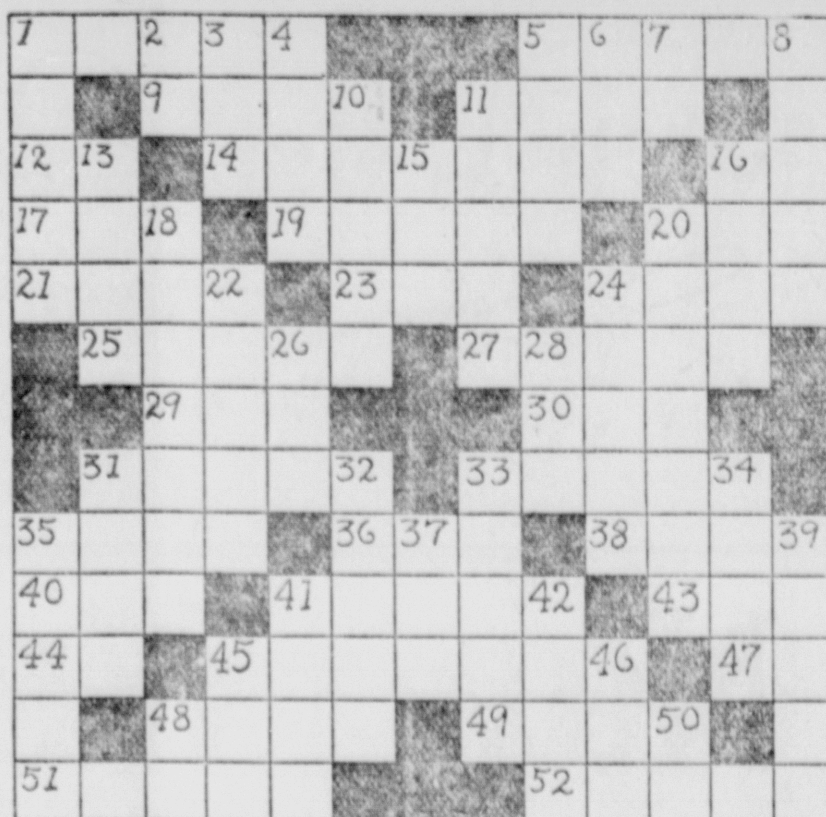

Look to Future Growth

Cities which were ill-planned at the beginning, and which have now grown large, can not go back to the beginning and adopt good plans. The best that they can do is to make improvements in their existing plans, along the lines which their founders should have laid down. This they can all do, to some extent; and they should realize that the more promptly they do it, the better it will be for them. The larger they grow on bad plans, the more the need of replanning will be felt, and the more laborious and expensive the process will be.—Washington Post.

City's Prettiest Street

Which is the most beautiful home in your city? And what are the points, anyway, on which a handsome house ought to be scored in a prize competition, as judges score Herefords, Wyandottes and prize babies, and bathing beauties? The Chattanooga (Tenn.) real estate board raised the question, with a contest it inaugurated to determine the most beautiful home in Chattanooga. Other groups within the National Association of Real Estate Boards are taking up the idea.

Women of Solomon

Islands Fade Early

In their youth, the women of the Solomon Islands are slender and graceful. However, they are like certain flowers, they blossom early and very soon fade. They marry sometimes before they are in their teens and become prematurely old from the drudgery of the day's labor—bringing up babies, tending gardens, making mats and pottery. Their dress consists of a fringe of hemp-fiber; or, where the white man's influence has penetrated, of a skirt of calico, called "lava-lava." The figures on the imported cloth occasionally suggest new designs for ornaments or pottery made by a native artist, who adapts them to his own best needs. By the help of a sling thrown over her shoulder, a young mother from the island of Malatta carries with ease her sturdy, healthy babies, one on each hip. Though unclothed, they wear necklaces and anklets. Children are usually carried in this fashion until they are three or older, despite their weight. Like the men, a woman prepares for the delights of smoking in some chance hour of rest by tucking her clay pipe and perhaps her tobacco and match-box into the pocket formed by her tight armband.

Cork Insulation

A combination of cork and concrete for building houses is the latest innovation being tried out in England. It is claimed that the combination insulates the houses, both against cold and noise.

The best that they can do is to make improvements in their existing plans, along the lines which their founders should have laid down. This they can all do, to some extent; and they should realize that the more promptly they do it, the better it will be for them. The larger they grow on bad plans, the more the need of replanning will be felt, and the more laborious and expensive the process will be.—Washington Post.

City's Prettiest Street

Which is the most beautiful home in your city? And what are the points, anyway, on which a handsome house ought to be scored in a prize competition, as judges score Herefords, Wyandottes and prize babies, and bathing beauties? The Chattanooga (Tenn.) real estate board raised the question, with a contest it inaugurated to determine the most beautiful home in Chattanooga. Other groups within the National Association of Real Estate Boards are taking up the idea.

Women of Solomon

Islands Fade Early

In their youth, the women of the Solomon Islands are slender and graceful. However, they are like certain flowers, they blossom early and very soon fade. They marry sometimes before they are in their teens and become prematurely old from the drudgery of the day's labor—bringing up babies, tending gardens, making mats and pottery. Their dress consists of a fringe of hemp-fiber; or, where the white man's influence has penetrated, of a skirt of calico, called "lava-lava." The figures on the imported cloth occasionally suggest new designs for ornaments or pottery made by a native artist, who adapts them to his own best needs. By the help of a sling thrown over her shoulder, a young mother from the island of Malatta carries with ease her sturdy, healthy babies, one on each hip. Though unclothed, they wear necklaces and anklets. Children are usually carried in this fashion until they are three or older, despite their weight. Like the men, a woman prepares for the delights of smoking in some chance hour of rest by tucking her clay pipe and perhaps her tobacco and match-box into the pocket formed by her tight armband.

A combination of cork and concrete for building houses is the latest innovation being tried out in England. It is claimed that the combination insulates the houses, both against cold and noise.

Rev. A. G. Patterson, Members From Brainerd and South Long Lake Churches, at Conference

AT GROUNDS ON LAKE KORONIS

Young People Stirred by Enthusiasm Evoked at the Gathering

Rev. A. G. Patterson, a number of delegates from the First Presbyterian church and the church of South Long Lake, returned Monday morning from Paynesville, where they spent a very profitable week at the Presbyterian Young People's Conference, held at the assembly grounds on beautiful Lake Koronis.

In the party with Rev. Patterson were the Misses Isabel Erickson and Mabel McKay and Mark Patterson of the local church, and the Misses Mildred Brown and Arville Maust, of the South Long Lake congregation. These delegates returned with added information about their church and with a determination to take a larger part in helping their congregation in various lines of activities. They are particularly concerned with the big program the church has for its young people, both within itself and throughout the community.

Some who attended the conference have decided to attend college as a result of the addresses at the conference.

Some interesting facts were placed before the delegates. For example, it was shown that nearly 2,000,000 members belong to the Presbyterian denomination, with 1,500 foreign missionaries in 15 different countries. The church supports in these countries 86 hospitals with several hundred dispensaries. There are over 4,000 home missionaries in this country with hundreds of schools for Negroes, Indians, Alaskans and other special groups whose education is not provided by local taxation. Presbyterian colleges employ men and women to educate the 25,000 young people who seek higher education under Christian influences.

Rev. Patterson is chairman of the Synod's committee on young peoples work, and as such attended the conference in session all of last week.

TOONERVILLE FOLLIES

Juvenile Revue Coming to New Park Theatre on July 18-19, Warmly Commended

Headed as one of the most pretentious juvenile revues ever offered in Brainerd, an aggregation of thirteen talented youngsters are booked for the New Park on Saturday and Sunday, July 18 and 19.

Fox's humorous cartoon strip presents all of the quaint characters, the Skipper, Tom Boy Taylor, Mielie McGuire, The Little Scorpions and even Oswald, the Woodpecker. Everyone of the children are artists in their line. This revue comes to the New Park directly from engagements at the State Theatre, Minneapolis and the Capitol Theatre, St. Paul, where they were considered the best juvenile revue ever presented in the Twin Cities.

The management of the New Park feels highly elated to be able to secure such a high class organization who have played the leading theatres of the territory and still present them at popular prices.

This revue will be shown in conjunction with the regular picture programs on Saturday with "As Men Desires" starring Milton Sills and Viola Dana, and on Sunday with "Tracked in the Snow Country" starring Rin Tin Tin, the ever popular police dog. These big shows will be presented at popular prices.

Municipal Court
In municipal court Saturday afternoon Charles Hendrickson was arraigned on a charge of transporting liquor, and his case was continued until Tuesday, July 14th.

Clifford Shipman was arraigned, charged with using language provocative of assault. He pled not guilty and his case was continued, bail being set at $50.

Herbert Shipman, also charged with language provocative of assault, pled not guilty and his trial was set for July 21st, with bail set at $50.

Charter List in Crow Wing County to be Largely Increased

6TH DISTRICT ORGANIZED

D. D. Schrader Named District Organizer in 6th Congressional District

D. D. Schrader, of Brainerd, chairman of the Republican County Committee, is so enthusiastic over the idea of active Republicans to join as charter members of the Lincoln club of Crow Wing county, that in order that no active Republican workers be slighted who may wish to become one of the founders, that he has made a personal appeal to the state-wide organization committee, at state headquarters, in Minneapolis, to grant a slight increase in the charter membership list for Brainerd, and the rest of the county, and has received assurances that his request will be granted to a reasonable extent, so as not to offend any of the real active workers.

In fact this was necessary anyway, while the women are not to be urged to do any more than co-operate, it has been already decided to accept those who of their own accord desire membership, on the same basis as the men.

Mr. Schrader has been appointed, and accepted to act as District organizer, until the work is completed, of securing a foundation list of charter members, to organize Lincoln clubs in the adjoining counties of the 6th District, which will relieve the State Wide Organization Committee from sending those willing to serve, from Minneapolis.

HAIL THIS MORNING

DAMAGES CROPS

Ninety hundredths of an inch rainfall at 2 o'clock this morning, plus a heavy sprinkle of hail did some damage to crop area near Brainerd. Farther westward, in territory from Akoley to Leader and Pilager, hail did considerable damage to corn and small grains. No damage was done to roads.

INDIAN PAGEANT AT BAYFIELD THIS WEEK

Sewing machine humming, dancers, practicing and carpenters hammering in the woods means progress at Indian Pageant Park at Bayfield this week according to O. A. Reetz, pageant director.

Miss Mary Dempsey an instructor at White-water Normal, who is costume designer for the pageant, arrived this week, and yards of tulle and silk are fashioning costumes for the thirty white dancing girls as well as character costumes. Ten of those girls are Superior Normal students whose homes are in Upper Wisconsin and Minnesota. Twenty are Ashland and Bayfield girls. Thirty Chippewa Indian girls from Odanah, Reserve and Lac du Flambeau are gathering with Rena White of Odanah, who plays the leading Indian role in the pageant, to practice their native costume dances.

Mrs. A. E. Mayer of Eau Claire, the pageant ball mistress, arrived this week to begin rehearsals, which will be conducted daily. The girls who take part in the pageant live at Pageant Park under careful chaperonage, and enjoy regular hours of swimming, canoeing, hiking and general vacation pleasures.

The Chippewa Indians from the Coudrey Reservation are the first to arrive to make camp for their tribe, driving through from Reserve, Wisconsin with their families, for their annual homecoming at Bayfield.

Real grading, building and painting bandstands and stages at the pageant grounds is being carried on under W. A. Pond's direction. A preparation of boxes will be used on the highways during the pageant to allow dust.

Adequate parking arrangements will care for the crowds, under police supervision of Thomas Miller of Reserve.

In fact, Indian Pageant park is being "all set to go" for the Ancestral Islands Indian Pageant at Bayfield the Top O' Wisconsin August 2 to 16.

ELKS DANCE

AT LUM PARK

Public Cordially Invited to Dance to be Held Friday Evening, July 17

HEDSTROM BAND PLAYS

Committee in Charge Assures Dance to be One of Social Events of Season

Brainerd Lodge, No. 615, B. P. O. Elks, will sponsor a dance at the Lum park pavilion on Friday evening, July 17th, to which the public is invited and urged to attend.

The fact that this is to be an Elks dance insures its success, as every such event in the past has proven exceptionally popular and has been very largely attended. Added to this is the announcement that Hedstrom band is to furnish the music, a combination that would be hard to equal.

The committee in charge of this dance promises that it is to be the biggest and best social event of the summer season, and the dancing public is quite ready to believe any such statement.

No matter how warm the weather may be in the city, it is always cool at the Lum park pavilion, and a very pleasant evening can be spent there in the warmest weather.

Hedstrom's orchestra is preparing an excellent program of the happiest dance numbers obtainable, having added all of the very latest popular song hits. One more musician has been recently added to the personnel of the orchestra, making it one of the most complete dance organizations playing in this section.

Keep Friday evening open for the Elks dance is the admonition heard on all sides. A mighty pleasant evening awaits all who attend.

Grounds Filled Every Night. Patronage Increases Since July 1st

IOWA IS SENDING MANY

Work Started Upon New Community House, a Valuable Addition to the Camp

The Brainerd tourist camp has gained considerable favor and has enjoyed a marked increase in patronage since the first of July, the grounds being well filled with tourists every night, according to the caretakers.

While there are many parties from Minnesota, there are a great many from other states, Iowa leading in this respect. The past two weeks has seen the largest number of such tourists that has ever visited the local camp.

Work started today upon the new community house, which will be a valuable addition to the camp. This house is to be built to the north of the caretaker's cottage, and will be 14 feet by 24 feet. The west side will be boarded, while the other three sides will be screened.

Tables, chairs and lounges will complete the house, and it is planned to keep periodicals there for the use of the visitors. These conveniences will be greatly appreciated by the tourists, and should make the Brainerd camp one of the best equipped in the state.

One party of tourists, consisting of a banker and a physician, with their families, from the southern part of the state, spent three days in the camp, when they had intended to be there only one night. The reason for the longer stay was the fact that soft rains were available, and both men were ardent golfers.

They found that they could make use of the Brainerd Country club course, and made the most of the opportunity for three days, until their wives complained that they hadn't obtained on spending their entire vacation in Brainerd. Many other tourists are also taking advantage of the golfing facilities offered by the local club, which is doing much to bring visitors to the city, and to keep them here after their arrival.

HIG BLACK BASS CAUGHT
Allen L. McKay, 10 Years Old, Caught 5 Pounds in Mirror Lake

A fine five-pound black bass is attracting considerable attention in the windows at the Perry Hardware Company's store, and is a beautiful specimen of its kind.

The remarkable thing about this incident is that the fish was caught by a 10-year old boy on a common hook with a spinner and minnow. Allen L. McKay was the youthful alms who hooked the bass. The fish put up such a fight that young McKay was compelled to go to shore to land it. Allen is a son of Mr. and Mrs. C. D. McKay.

The bass was caught on Mirror lake, better known as "Ruth lake," on the east side of Gull. The McKay cottage is on the shores of this lake.

They are particularly concerned with the big program the church has for its young people, both within itself and throughout the community. Some who attended the conference have decided to attend college as a result of the addresses at the conference.

Some interesting facts were placed before the delegates. For example, it was shown that nearly 2,000,000 members belong to the Presbyterian denomination, with 1,600 foreign missionaries in 15 different countries. The church supports in these countries 86 hospitals with several hundred dispensaries. There are over 4,000 home missionaries in this country with hundreds of schools for Negroes, Indians, Alaskans and other special groups whose education is not provided by local taxation. Presbyterian colleges employ men and women to educate the 35,000 young people who seek higher education under Christian influences.

Rev. Patterson is chairman of the synod's committee on young people's work, and as such attended the conference in session all of last week.

TOONERVILLE FOLLIES

Juvenile Revue Coming to New Park Theatre on July 18-19. Warmly Commended

Heretofore as one of the most pretentious juvenile revues ever offered in Brainerd, an aggregation of thirteen talented youngsters are looking for the New Park on Saturday and Sunday, July 18 and 19.

This revue taken from Fontaine Fox's humorous cartoon strip presents all of the quaint characters, the Skipper, Tom Boy Taylor, Mike McGuire, The Little Scorpions and even Oswald, the Woodpecker. Everyone of the children are artists in their line. This revue comes to the New Park directly from engagements at the State Theatre, Minneapolis and the Capitol Theatre, St. Paul, where they were considered the best juvenile revue ever presented in the Twin Cities.

The management of the New Park feels highly elated to be able to offer such a high class organization who have played the leading theatres in the territory and still present them at popular prices.

This revue will be shown in conjunction with the regular picture programs on Saturday with "As Men Desire" starring Milton Sills and Viola Dana, and on Sunday with "Tracked in the Snow Country" starring Rin Tin Tin, the ever popular police dog. These big shows will be presented at popular prices.

Municipal Court Saturday afternoon Charles Hendrickson was arraigned on a charge of transporting liquor, and his case was continued until Tuesday, July 14th.

Clifford Shipman was arraigned charged with using language provocative of assault. He pleaded not guilty and his case was continued, bail being set at $50.

Herbert Shipman, also charged with language provocative of assault, pleaded not guilty and his trial was set for July 21st, with bail set at $50.

Charter List in Crow Wing County to be Largely Increased

6TH DISTRICT ORGANIZED

D. D. Schrader Named District Organizer in 6th Congressional District

D. D. Schrader, of Brainerd, chairman of the Republican County Committee, is so enthusiastic over the desire of active Republicans to join as charter members of the Lincoln club of Crow Wing county, that in order that no active Republican workers be slighted who may wish to become one of the founders, that he has made a personal appeal to the state-wide organization committee, at state headquarters, in Minneapolis, to grant a slight increase in the charter membership list for Brainerd, and the rest of the county, and has received assurances that his request will be granted to a reasonable extent, so as not to offend any of the real active workers.

In fact this was necessary anyway, as while the women are not to be urged to do any more than co-operate, it has been already decided to accept those who of their own accord desire membership on the same basis as the men.

Mr. Schrader has been appointed, and accepted to act as District organizer, until the work is completed, of securing a foundation list of charter members, to organize Lincoln clubs in the adjoining counties of the Sixth District, which will relieve the State Wide Organization Committee from sending those willing to serve, from Minneapolis.

HAIL THIS MORNING DAMAGES CROPS

Ninety hundredths of an inch rain, fell at 2 o'clock this morning, plus a heavy sprinkle of hail did some damage to crop area near Brainerd. Farther westward, in territory from Akeley to Leader and Pigeon, hail did considerable damage to corn and small grains. No damage was done to roads.

INDIAN PAGEANT AT BAYFIELD THIS WEEK

Sewing machine humming, dancers practicing and carpenters hammering in the woods means progress at Indian Pageant Park at Bayfield this week according to O. A. Reed, pageant director.

Miss Mary Dempsey an instructor at Whitewater Normal, who is costume for the pageant, arrived this week and yards of tulle and silk are fashioning costumes for the thirty white dancing girls as well as character costumes. Ten of these girls are Superior Normal students whose homes are in Upper Wisconsin and Minnesota. Twenty are Ashland and Bayfield girls. Thirty Chippewa Indian girls from Odanah, Reservoir and Lac du Flambeau are gathering, with Roma White of Odanah, who plays the leading Indian role in the pageant, to practise their native costume dances.

Mrs. A. E. Mayer of Eau Claire, the pageant ball mistress, arrived this week to begin rehearsals, which will be conducted daily. The girls who take part in the pageant live at Pageant Park under careful supervision, and enjoy regular hours of swimming, canoeing, hiking and general vacation woods pleasures.

The Chippewa Indians from the Coudrey Reservation are the first to arrive to make camp for their trip, driving through from Reserve, with their families, for their annual homecoming at Bayfield. Road grading, building and painting handstands and stages on the pageant grounds is being carried on under W. A. Pond's direction. A preparation of bonafide will be used on the highways during the pageant to delay dust.

Adequate parking arrangements will care for the crowds, under police supervision of Thomas Miller of Reservoir.

In fact, Indian Pageant park is being "all set to go" for the Apostle Islands Indian Pageant at Bayfield the Top O' Wisconsin August 2 to 16.

ELKS DANCE

AT LUM PARK

Public Cordially Invited to Dance to be Held Friday Evening, July 17

HEDSTROM BAND PLAYS

Committee in Charge Assures Dance to be One of Social Events of Season
Brainerd Lodge, No. 615, R. P. O. Elks, will sponsor a dance at the Lum park pavilion on Friday evening, July 17th, to which the public is invited and urged to attend.

The fact that this is to be an Elks dance insures its success, as every such event in the past has proven exceptionally popular and has been very largely attended. Added to this is the announcement that Hedstrom band is to furnish the music, a combination that would be hard to equal.

The committee in charge of the dance promises that it is to be the biggest and best social event of the summer season, and the dancing public is quite ready to believe any such statement.

No matter how warm the weather may be in the city, it is always cool at the Lum park pavilion, and a very pleasant evening can be spent there in the warmest weather.

Hedstrom's orchestra is preparing an excellent program of the snappiest dances, some obtainable, having added all of the very latest popular song hits. One more musician has been recently added to the personnel of the orchestra, making it one of the most complete dance organizations playing in this section.

Keep Friday evening open for the Elks dance is the admonition heard on all sides. A mighty pleasant evening awaits all who attend.

AMATEUR BANDS AT GRAND FORKS
(By United Press)
Grand Forks, N. D., July 13.—Amateur bands from fifteen cities and towns of Minnesota and North Dakota are this week billed as feature attractions at the North Dakota State fair which opened here this morning.

The bands gathering here from the three states are competing in the Northwestern Band Tournament which is being conducted in connection with the state fair.

Included in the fifteen delegations are adult bands from Crofton, Valley City, Anna, Northwood, Park River and Pierre, and the Boy's Band from Bemidji.

SPANISH WAR VETERANS MEET
(By United Press)
Wilmar, Minn., July 12.—Election of officers is scheduled at the business session today of the Spanish War Veterans association in annual convention here. This afternoon the delegates will be taken on a tour of the country, with golf tournaments scheduled at the various clubs and a dinner here tonight.

The convention, which opened late yesterday, will continue until tomorrow night. All of the twenty camps in the state are represented at the meeting.

MORE TOURISTS

AT THE PARK

Grounds Filled Every Night. Patronage Increases Since July 1st

IOWA IS SENDING MANY

Work Started Upon New Community House, a Valuable Addition to the Camp

The Brainerd tourist camp has gained considerable favor and has enjoyed a marked increase in patronage since the first of July, the grounds being well filled with tourists every night, according to the caretakers.

While there are many parties from Minnesota, there are a great many from other states, Iowa leading in this respect. The past two weeks has seen the largest number of such tourists that has ever visited the local camp.

Work started today upon the new community house, which will be a valuable addition to the camp. This house is to be built to the north of the caretaker's cottage, and will be 14 feet by 24 feet. The west side will be boarded, while the other three sides will be screened.

Tables, chairs and lounges will complete the house, and it is planned to keep periodicals there for the use of the visitors. These conveniences will be greatly appreciated by the tourists, and should make the Brainerd camp one of the best equipped in the state.

One party of tourists, consisting of a banker and a physician, with their families, from the southern part of the state, spent three days at the camp, when they had intended to be there only one night. The reason for the longer stay was the fact that soft links were available, and both men are ardent golfers.

They found that they could make use of the Brainerd Country club course, and made the most of the opportunity for three days, until their families complained that they had planned on spending their entire vacation in Brainerd. Many other tourists are also taking advantage of the golfing facilities offered by the local club, which is doing much to bring visitors to the city, and to keep them here after they arrive.

A fine five-pound black bass is attracting considerable attention in the windows at the Perry Hardware Company's store, and is a beautiful specimen of its kind.

The remarkable thing about this incident is that the fish was caught by a 10-year old boy on a common hook with a spinner and minnow.

Allen L. McKay, waiting the young simrod who hooked the bass. The fish put up such a fight that young McKay was compelled to go to shore to land it. Allen is a son of Mr. and Mrs. C. D. McKay.

The bass was caught on Mirror lake, better known as "Ruth lake," on the east side of Gull. The McKay cottage is on the shores of this lake.

RUDIE SAYS ART CAN WAIT, BOX OFFICE WANTS SHEIK

VALENTINO TO TAKE UP "OLD STUFF" TO FATTEN HIS PURSE

HARD TO IMPROVE PUBLIC'S TASTE FOR FINER FILMS

By LINCOLN QUARBERG
(United Press Staff Correspondent)
Hollywood, July 13.—Rudolph Valentino is going back to the "sheik stuff" to please the flappers and fatten his purse.

The sheik of the screen has decided that the only way to remain popular with the fans as well as the critics is to feed them what they want in film fodder.

"Since I made my first big hit in 'The Sheik' I have tried to create very artistic pictures," Valentino said. "In a way I went over, but never liked 'The Sheik'."

"I had visions of improving the public's taste for finer films. Bah!—From now on I will watch the ticket-window and give them all this sheik stuff they want."

Knows He Has Slipped
Rudy rather reluctantly admitted that his latest pictures have not had the box-office pull he had hoped for. He deplores that fact because he feels he is a better film actor today than he was when he made "The Sheik."

However, in returning to his old tricks to re-win the flappers' hearts, Valentino is not going to rejuvenate the Latin brand of heart-breaker. He plans to be a romantic Russian.

The actor believes he can endow the Russian lover with the same romantic glamour which now surrounds every handsome son of Italy or Spain because of the original Valentino interpretation.

The cameras are already grinding out the initial scenes of Valentino's next production, which he calls "The Untamed." Rudy of course is the "untamed" part of the picture.

He is a Russian bandit, stealing everything from vodka to girls' hearts, mostly the latter. He rides handsomely on a fast horse, dances and makes love with the same ardor that characterized "The Sheik."

He does not wear whiskers and there are no bolsheviks in the story as the action takes place before the Russian revolution. But he is a "sheik" at heart, and he plays it in a diabolical fashion, in a background of old Russia.

Bemoans "My Art"
It grieves Valentino to become a sheik again and abandon his best art to cater to the ticket-buyer.

"I hate to be called 'The Sheik,' he said, because the word has taken on a devilish meaning.

"I pick up a paper and what do I see? A 'sheik' has been arrested for annoying girls in a dance-hall, or wearing lace for trouser cuffs. Another 'sheik' has murdered his grandmother because she wouldn't give him money to buy gin.

"I should like to make pictures that would appeal to the fans like 'The Sheik' did, but I want to make them better. That of course is a difficult thing to do.

MRS. TINNEY READY TO TAKE COMEDIAN
BACK, REPORT SAYS

New York, July 13.—Broadway got a thrill today from a story to the effect that Mrs. Frank Tinney was ready to forgive and forget and take back her wandering husband, the famous black-face comedian, now in London. But "Ma" Tinney, as Frank affectionately dubbed her, says it is not altogether so.

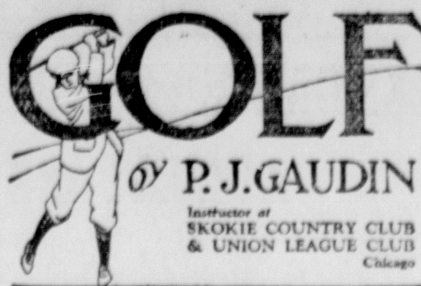

After knocking out Imogene Wilson, former "Follies" beauty, at a memorable midnight battle in the lady's boudoir, Frank fled to London, where a fat contract awaited him. Imogene followed and a reconciliation was effected.

Today a story came out that Tinney and Imogene had parted and that the comedian might stand a chance at home if he arrived before Mrs. Tinney's divorce action came up in October.

"I did not say I would take him back," Mrs. Tinney told the United Press. "I did not say anything about myself. What I have been thinking about is the boy (Frank's son) who is getting old enough to read now and understand things. It's about time Frank stopped drinking and started thinking."

"If he came back would there be a reconciliation," she was asked.

"My divorce action is proceeding," countered the former Edna Davenport, who was once a noted comedienne in her own right.

27—Mastery of Clubs.

The average golfer never arrives at the beatific stage where he gets good results from each of his clubs. Very seldom, indeed, has he much confidence in more than two or three, though he is a good enough sport always to try with what he believes is the right club.

If you have played in a one-club match, you will probably agree with the following. If you have not, you can but take the statements under advisement until you have had more experience. Those who have played in a one-club medal-play tournament usually choose the mid-iron. Until one acquires more than the average skill, he can play a lower score with a mid-iron, for instance, than with all his clubs. One-club play, by the way, is very highly recommended.

Faster than in any other way it will increase your skill with the club used. Even better than that, it will show clearly when it is not the best club to use. A few rounds with one club will materially lower your score, for the primary reason that it will greatly reduce the number of poor strokes by this club. You will be surprised, for instance, at the added skill a round of the course with a mashie-niblick, preferably supplemented with a putter, will give. The driving iron or cleek is the best club to use in a one-club match, if one is fairly sure of staying out of bunkers.

With several such tests, the average player will listen with a good deal of approval to the statement that Chick Evans never uses more than seven clubs and believes he finally will get to six. Let it be set down as a fact that the player who has mastered even six clubs is far beyond the average class. The average player can do much better with a brassie, driving iron, mid-iron, jigger, mashie, mashie-niblick and putter, than if he adds a driver, spoon, mashie iron and niblick to his kit. For all practical purposes, it is much better for the average player to carry only a brassie, mid-iron, mashie, mashie-niblick and putter until he feels perfect confidence in their use. Only then is there reason for adding other clubs. Worse even than the uncertain results of the shots is the uncertainty of which club to use where there is more than one that might fit the case.

BUSINESS MEN ARE AIDING TOURNAMENT

ARE RESPONDING IN TRULY
SPLENDID MANNER TO RE-QUESTS FOR DONATIONS

Business men are responding in a truly splendid manner to the requests for donations being made by the tournament committee of the Brainerd Country club, for its big tourist tournament on next Sunday afternoon.

Merchants of the city have donated many valuable prizes which will be given to the tourist players, prizes of special value to those who are on the motor trail. These prizes were put on display in the Dispatch windows this afternoon.

Business men also have been exceptionally liberal in making donations of food stuffs for the luncheon which is to be tendered the tourists participating in the tournament.

Quite a number of summer visitors have already signified their intentions of entering this tournament, and have registered with the grounds keeper at the club house. Others are asked to do so during this week.

The golf course will be open to the public without charge on Sunday morning, and all Brainerd people are invited to make use of the links at that time. At one o'clock in the afternoon the course will be closed to all players, except those participating in the tournament.

Members of the country club should register, together with their best scores, so that two club members can be entered with two tourists in each foursome.

"Tourists' Day" at the Brainerd Country club promised to be one of the most eventful affairs in the history of the organization, and will do much to further the interests of the summer visitors in the Brainerd way of entertaining them.

"Cheaper To Marry" More Effective Than Ever as Picture

"Cheaper to Marry," Robert Z. Leonard's latest production for Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer, opened yesterday at the Lyceum Theatre and has its last showing tonight. In the large and well-proportioned cast were Lewis S. Stone, Conrad Nagel, Paulette Goddard, Marguerite de la Motte, Louise Fazenda, Claude Gillingwater and Richard Wayne.

Colleen Moore established herself beyond question with such successes as "Flaming Youth" and "So Big," but in "Sally" she rises to even greater heights. Her role of the forlorn little drudge in the orphanage, who through sheer force of her own character rises to the fame of a great dancer, affords the star wide opportunities for the exercise of her talents.

Frank Woods, who for over five years supervised every production excepting the de Mille's filmed at the Famous Players-Lasky west coast studios and who prior to that was closely associated with D. W. SEVENTEEN SENATORS, THIRTY CONGRESSMEN INDORSE C. M. T. C.

Senators and congressmen, representing nearly every state in the union, have been quick to indorse the Citizens Military Training Camps. These indorsements, following closely the recommendation given by President Coolidge, indicate clearly the high regard in which these men hold the Citizens' Military Training Camp system, and its benefits to the youth and country at large.

Although the camps were not started until 1920, their value has become more apparent each year, and their usefulness in the physical, mental and moral development of the young men of the land is becoming universally recognized. Senator Selden P. Spencer of Missouri says: "The Citizens' Military Training Camps are one of the great national assets of our country." Congressman Clarence Cannon of Missouri, regrets that he has no son to send to camp but states: "The young men these camps are turning out each year constitute the highest type of American manhood and are destined to become the leaders in the business and civic affairs of their communities."

Lester Hill, congressman from Alabama, sees great good resulting from the camps, and says: "I will be happy whenever the opportunity presents itself to say a good word for the Citizens' Military Training Camps. The importance of the camps in regard to National Defense is stressed in a letter from Senator Ralph H. Cameron of Arizona, who says: "I am a firm believer in adequate defense and naturally I indorse unreservedly the spirit of the C. M. T. C."

Young men who want to make the most out of life should consider seriously these recommendations of men who are close to the needs and requirements of the things that make a worth while career. Almost every phase of life is touched in the training of young men in the camps and the importance of this training should be considered by parents and young men at its true value.

The camps open August first and continue until August thirty-first. Enrollments are coming in rapidly and young men who desire to take advantage of this training are urged to file their applications early. There is no charge connected with attending the camps, and everything, including food, clothing, railroad fare, emergency medical and dental care, is furnished by the government.

Camps in the Seventh Corps Area are held at Fort Leavenworth, Kansas; Fort Des Moines, Iowa; Fort Snelling, Minnesota; and there is also one at Jefferson Barracks, Mo., for basic course students only (July 23rd to August 21st). MAKE US APPRECIATE OUR HIGHWAY SYSTEM

Minneapolis East Side Argus
Improved highways properly maintained, are a joy to the traveler. And this enjoyment is increased when the trails are properly marked for the guidance of the tourist.

If you would appreciate Minnesota's wonderful system of state roads, journey down into Iowa, over the Jefferson highway. The route is highly accessible through to Des Moines but the marking so negligible that a saint would be sorely tried in seeking passage.

Fence posts, trees and other such agencies are employed to carry the small signs that direct the motorist. Sometimes they are nearly a mile apart, far back off the road and one is kept in a quandary as to whether he is still proceeding over the right route or not.

At night this condition is aggravated, especially with few crossroads marked to aid the traveler in his attempt to get somewhere.

After several hours of night driving in Iowa we are strong for Mr. Babcock and the excellent highway system he has established in this state. More power to him and his efficient work. Our sister state to the south should wake up and make traveling over its main highways a little more pleasurable by expending a few hundred dollars for markers.

The Reward of Achievement

Mr. George E. Roberts, Vice President of the National City bank, in Nation's Business for April, 1925, might have been writing pointedly of the Standard Oil Company (Indiana) when he said:

"The clamor for official regulation of business arises primarily because men do not understand economic forces. There are few lines of business in which these forces will not protect the public. In normal times, it seldom happens that unusual profits are made, but that competition quickly arises and corrects the situation."

"Our economic progress has been accomplished under an individualistic system. The theory of this system is that everyone shall have for his own, as nearly as may be, that which results from his own efforts. This insures him to labor, to produce and to accumulate, by rendering those services to the community which the community is willing to pay for. He is inspired to labor by an ambition to achieve, to win distinction and to render service."

"The argument for widespread government ownership and regulation of the oil industry is based upon the theory that the wealth employed in this industry benefits nobody but the owners. This is like claiming that the people who benefit most from the development of the steam engine are owners of steam engines; that the people who gain most from the railroads, are those having investments in the railroads. The fallacy of this theory is apparent."

The people who benefit most by the money invested in the Standard Oil Company (Indiana) are those who consume its products.

Every citizen is benefited by every investment of capital which increases the supply or lowers the cost of any commodity.

The Standard Oil Company (Indiana) serves society by increasing the supply and lowering the price of petroleum products.

In recent years this Company has anticipated progress by being among the first to introduce "employee ownership of stock in the Company."

Today, more than 15,000 employees are stockholders.

To enable its employees to participate to the greatest extent possible, the Standard Oil Company (Indiana) adds 50c to every $1.00 that an employee invests in stock in the Company.

The result of this far-sighted policy has been to create a better feeling among the employees and to promote a spirit of enthusiasm.

Today, every employee-stockholder takes great pride in the fact that he is a partner in the business and that as he shares in the profits so must he assume his share of the responsibility.

It is such spirit and consequent interest in the daily task that develops the individual man and fits the office boy for the clerkship; the clerk for the executive position, and the executive for the Board of Directors.

Thus does the individual in the Standard Oil Company (Indiana) organization of 27,000 reap reward according to his achievements. Thirty million people of the Middle West get all that the Standard Oil Company (Indiana)—as an organization and as a group of individuals—is able to render in a superior, unfailing service.

RUDIE SAYS ART CAN WAIT, BOX OFFICE WANTS SHEIK

VALENTINO TO TAKE UP 'OLD STUFF' TO FATTEN HIS PURSE

HARD TO IMPROVE PUBLIC'S TASTE FOR FINER FILMS

By LINCOLN QUARBERG
(United Press Staff Correspondent)
Hollywood, July 13.—Rudolph Valentino is going back to the "sheik stuff" to please the flappers and fatten his purse.

The sheik of the screen has decided that the only way to remain popular with the fans as well as the critics is to feed them what they want in film fodder.

"Since I made my first big hit in 'The Sheik' I have tried to create very artistic pictures," Valentino said. "In a way I went over, but never like 'The Sheik'."

"I had visions of improving the public's taste for finer films. Bah!—From now on I will watch the ticket-window and give them all this sheik stuff they want."

Knows He Has Slipped
Rudy rather reluctantly admitted that his latest pictures have not had the box-office pull he had hoped for. He deprecates that fact because he feels he is a better film actor today than he was when he made "The Sheik."

However, in returning to his old tricks to re-win the flappers' hearts, Valentino is not going to rejuvenate the Latin brand of heart-breaker. He plans to be a romantic Russian.

The actor believes he can endow the Russian lover with the same romantic glamour which now surrounds every handsome son of Italy or Spain because of the original Valentino interpretation.

The cameras are already grinding out the initial scenes of Valentino's next production, which he calls "The Untamed." Rudy of course is the "untamed" part of the picture.

He is a Russian bandit, stealing everything from vodka to girls' hearts, mostly the latter. He rides handsomely on a fast horse, dances and makes love with the same ardor that characterized "The Sheik."

He does not wear whiskers and there are no bolsheviks in the story as the action takes place before the Russian revolution. But he is a "sheik" at heart, and he plays it in a diabolical fashion, in a background of old Russia.

Bemoans 'My Art'
It grieves Valentino to become a sheik again and abandon his best art to cater to the ticket-buyer.

"I hate to be called 'The Sheik,' he said, because the word has taken on a devilish meaning.
"I pick up a paper and what do I see? A 'sheik' has been arrested for annoying girls in a dance-hall, or wearing lace for trouser cuffs. Another 'sheik' has murdered his grandmother because she wouldn't give him money to buy gin."

"I should like to make pictures that would appeal to the fans like 'The Sheik' did, but I want to make them better. That of course is a difficult thing to do."

MRS. TINNEY READY TO TAKE COMEDIAN BACK, REPORT SAYS

New York, July 13.—Broadway got a thrill today from a story to the effect that Mrs. Frank Tinney was ready to forgive and forget and take back her wandering husband, the famous black-face comedian, now in London. But "Ma" Tinney, as Frank affectionately dubbed her, says it is not altogether so.

After knocking out Imogene Wilson, former "Follies" beauty, at a memorable midnight battle in the lady's boudoir, Frank fled to London, where a fat contract awaited him. Imogene followed and a reconciliation was effected.

Today a story came out that Tinney and Imogene had parted and that the comedian might stand a chance at home if he arrived before Mrs. Tinney's divorce action came up in October.

"I did not say I would take him back," Mrs. Tinney told the United Press. "I did not say anything about myself. What I have been thinking about is the boy (Frank's son) who is getting old enough to read now and understand things. It's about time Frank stopped drinking and started thinking."

"If he came back would there be a reconciliation," she was asked.

"My divorce action is proceeding," countered the former Edna Davenport, who was once a noted comedienne in her own right.

GOLF OF P. J. GAUDIN

27—Mastery of Clubs.

The average golfer never arrives at the beatific stage where he gets good results from each of his clubs. Very seldom, indeed, has he much confidence in more than two or three, though he is a good enough sport always to try with what he believes is the right club.

If you have played in a one-club match, you will probably agree with the following. If you have not, you can but take the statements under advisement until you have had more experience. Those who have played in a one-club medal-play tournament usually choose the mid-iron. Until one acquires more than the average skill, he can play a lower score with a mid-iron, for instance, than with all his clubs. One-club play, by the way, is very highly recommended. Faster than in any other way it will increase your skill with the club used. Even better than that, it will show clearly when it is not the best club to use. A few rounds with one club will materially lower your score, for the primary reason that it will greatly reduce the number of poor strokes by this club. You will be surprised, for instance, at the added skill a round of the course with a mashie-niblick, preferably supplemented with a putter, will give. The driving iron or cleek is the best club to use in a one-club match, if one is fairly sure of staying out of bunkers.

With several such tests, the average player will listen with a good deal of approval to the statement that Chick Evans never uses more than seven clubs and believes he finally will get to six. Let it be set down as a fact that the player who has mastered even six clubs is far beyond the average class. The average player can do much better with a brassie, driving iron, mid-iron, figger, brassie, mashie-niblick and putter, than if he adds a driver, spoon, mashie iron and niblick to his kit. For all practical purposes, it is much better for the average player to carry only a brassie, mid-iron, mashie, mashie-niblick and putter until he feels perfect confidence in their use. Only then is there reason for adding other clubs. Worse even than the uncertain results of the shots is the uncertainty of which club to use where there is more than one that might fit the case.

Week-End Outfit in One Suitcase

Fewer Costumes Are Needed for Milady's Short Sojourn.

The conquering heroine of the pre-sports era was an earnest believer in the strength of numbers and her week-end sallies into strange countries were never ventured without the accompaniment of a wardrobe that was as extensive as it was pretentious. Those were the days, writes a fashion correspondent in the New York Herald-Tribune, when quantity was the measure of smartness and when no occasion was too trivial to demand a change of costume. Starting with the morning frock, a summer's day which did not witness at least four distinct costumes was counted among the lost, and the enterprising demoiselle who could improve upon that number was at once the envy of her sisters and the glowing light of social gatherings. Manifestly, it was impossible to pack the necessary wardrobe within the limited confines of a single suitcase, and the pleasure-bent week-end was compelled to travel, laden heavily with luggage or else run the risk of being occasionally out of the picture.

Those unsentimental times are past, due partly to the comparative unconvictionality of the summer mode, partly to a more enlightened attitude on the part of the gentle traveler, and partly to the general vogue of sports-wear. Fashion no longer contents itself with seasonal changes—it is continually undergoing minute evolutions and the hallmark of haute chic demands small monthly wardrobe changes instead of the voluminous semi-annual acquisitions that characterized the past. The modern Parisienne does not burden herself with many clothes at a time—her annual number of frocks is, perhaps, greater than ever before, but they are added at diverse periods as the occasion demands, and as they are added, other costumes are either discarded or revamped to coincide with the smartest and latest dicta of the mode.

Wardrobe Should Fit Suitcase.

The result is a wardrobe which is always chic and never cumbersome and which is comfortably sufficient unto the three days of the sportive week-end. Indeed, the greatest boon to the modern week-end habit has been the general simplification of fashion. You simply cannot pack frills and furbelows into a suitcase. If you appear with a wardrobe trunk or a plurality of suitcases your hostess immediately becomes apprehensive and you can hardly blame her. Obviously, then, the ideal week-end wardrobe must be modified to suit a single suitcase and the present status of the mode makes that task no longer a problem.

Apparently the dressmakers were thinking of the feminine week-end when they evolved those delectable jumper suits that are the prop of every smart woman's existence nowadays. Whether it is made of kasha, crepe de chine or foulard, the jumper frock is the easiest garment to fold that has appeared on the modern horiquirements. These crease less readily than cotton and they shake out into charming folds as soon as they are hung up in a roomy cupboard.

After games the most usual occupation is bridge, and for this you will require a change. But let it be a change into a frock that, but for its color and material, might almost be worn for tennis or golf itself. The smartest clothes of the present season all have that sports allure. Even your dinner dress should have such a simple cut that if you put it on in the daytime nothing could be easier than an impromptu game, quite possible in its straightline simplicity.

A charming idea for the bridge frock is the new jabot idea. It is an excellent suggestion, for there should be something reminiscent of the jabot in your week-end case—it is so typical of the present season's tendencies. It can be carried out in georgette crepe or chiffon and there is no need to adhere severely to plain material. The wild riots of flowers that are scattered over a beige or black ground are a charming feature of summer chiffons. They have this additional advantage—If your rubber is prolonged until the dinner gong sounds, you may appear dressed, fresh, ready for dinner and even the dance following without looking very much as if you had kept on your afternoon frock, for with chiff-fon it is difficult to say where the afternoon ends and the evening begins. When you intend to include a really formal evening affair during your week-end visit, put in a straight-fringed frock.

You might include a little shawl to throw over the shoulders—it is a real boon on those delightful summer nights when one feels tempted to stroll in the garden between dances. Paris insists on some dainty accessory on these occasions—not from a practical point of view, but because it adds a balancing feminine triviality to the slender lines of the July evening frocks.

Easily Packed Incidentals.

It is advisable to reduce shoes and other accessories to a minimum when you are paying a week-end visit. Keep a small extra bag for your shoes, and you can also use it for last minute remembrances, for even the most methodical of us invariably leave out something of which we think frantically when straps are fastened and keys put into the handbag. Often enough it is just the pair of shoes that goes with the particular frock around which the week-end wardrobe is constructed. Fashion has been liberal in late years by sanctioning gold, silver or blond satin shoes to be worn with every kind of evening gown. Now the mode is changing and the slipper should match the frock. This is an additional complication, but it is essential in a surrounding which places a premium on smart clothes. In less formal places you may choose a pair of blond satin shoes and wear them with your bridge frock as well as in the evening.

Above all other things, remember that costumes worn in Rome should always be Roman. The habit of swimming upstream has no place in modern fashions and it is particularly inappropriate in the short-visiting week-end. If you are going to visit at some mountain resort which prides itself on a certain lack of convention, leave that Paton robe du soir at home and forget that very Parisian chapeau by Lewis. And conversely, if your journey's end be at some watering place where fashion is the alpha and omega, don't attempt to convert the frivolous populace by wearing clothes that are plain and commonplace. The mode has places for its missionaries, but the week-end habitat is not one of them.

New in Tweeds

The Scotch tweed manufacturers are shading the colors of their materials. This is an innovation, for tweeds heretofore have been of the same color from side to side. One long coat brought from London is of shaded tweed deepening from a light fawn at the top to cinnamon and then to a deep brown at the border.

A Springtime Flirtation

By WALTER SCOTT STORY

(© 1925, Western Newspaper Union.)

STILSON turned; the girl was turning, too, halting on the street corner. He retraced the few steps intervening, and, with raised hat, smiled down into a surprisingly clean-cut, intelligent face. The girl was a trim little thing, and not really little, either, with an eye direct and matter of fact, yet devoid of invitation or challenge. And she was as pretty as he had thought:

"When I passed I thought I knew you," he said.

"I thought I knew you," responded the girl, in a voice satisfyingly pleasant, but she smiled.

Neither made a move to separate. "Live around here?" Inquired Dan.

"Not—all the time." "An artist, I suppose?" He took off his hat and toyed with it with strong, long fingers.

She looked at him quickly and openly. His weather-beaten, good-humored, honest face pleased her.

"No," she answered. "I'm a maid over on Twelfth street."

"No. Are you?" He smiled and put out a hand.

"But not everybody's maid," she retorted, withdrawing her hand without flurry. "No holding hands—at present." She looked him in the face, and her eyes sparkled tantalizingly.

Dan laughed and shrugged his broad shoulders.

"I used to drive a bus on the Avenue," he declared. "Got a good job now for a private owner—over on Twelfth street. New job."

"I fancy we're both—awful larks—to be plain."

"I'm as much a chauffeur as you are a maid," responded Dan.

"Perhaps," said Miss Brayson. She was very demure now. "Did you really think you knew me on the corner?" "Thought I'd like to," he said, frankly.

Miss Brayson suddenly glanced at her wrist watch.

"I must be going," she said, with a note that Dan delightedly felt to be reluctance. "No, you need not go along, Mr. Stilson," she added, rather quickly. "I'll go alone; I prefer to go alone, thank you."

"We're going to meet again, surely," said Dan, looking down. "I'm on the level, Miss Brayson."

"I don't think we'd better."

"Why not? What's the objection? Don't—"

"—oh, no." She answered quietly, but earnestly.

"You're not married or engaged?"

She shook her head, a suggestion of obstinacy in her manner.

Dan looked at her steadily, and then slightly inclined his head.

"All right," he said, quietly. "Good night." He bowed, and did not offer to shake hands.

He watched Miss Brayson as she went across the street to the corner of Fifth avenue.

Miss Brayson, once around the corner, halted and looked back.

"He really knew," she thought to herself, "and, no, I wouldn't—dare." She hurried on, her eyes stary, her thoughts high and lofty—Dan Stilson the center of them.

On the next morning, Stilson got his first call from his new employer. He made a cheerful, respectful response, got into the Grentham limousine and went up to Twelfth street and drew to the curb before No. 203½—dingy enough, but nevertheless the abode of a wealthy man.

The door opened in a few minutes and two women and a little girl came from it and approached. One of the women was without hat and wore a little white apron and carried a grip, but came behind the other, whose hat half obscured her face.

Dan had already opened the door of the car. The first woman and the little girl entered the car, and the woman with the apron—a brown-haired, trim, clear-eyed, very pretty girl—stood alone and held out the bag to the chauffeur.

Dan, taking the grip, stared at the maid, and his heart turned over in his breast.

The maid returned his gaze, her eyes sparkling.

"I'm glad!" exclaimed Dan, in a low tone.

"I'm glad, too," said the girl, quickly. "I thought you were a rich man—playing."

"I thought you were a lady—and you are, to me. Yes, madam," he responded, promptly, turning at a call from the car. "To Lucille's, Thirty-fifth street. Yes, m'am." He shut the car door softly, gave a quick wink to the maid and gained his seat and started the engine.

The maid stood at the doorway and watched the limousine turn the corner, her eyes shining.

She's Mrs. Stilson now, and stands daily at another doorway watching for Dan to arrive in the same limousine for his lunch, or for his dinner, as the time may be.

When Greeley Proved He Was No Minister

Most people know Girard college, if they know it at all, for its stringent rule that no clergyman shall ever enter its gate. Whenever the institution is open a guard stands at that entrance, and his one question is, "Are you a preacher?" Long ago Horace Greeley, with his usual white tie and angelic smile, stood at that gate.

"You can't come in here!" exclaimed the guard.

"Why not?" queried Greeley humbly.

"Because you are a clergyman."

"The h— I am!" blurted out Greeley.

"Excuse me, sir," stammered the guard, "come right in."

It was not prejudice against clergymen that caused Stephen Girard to make that law, but rather his desire that the boys should not be confused by denominational controversy, and that "on their entrance into active life they may adopt such religious tenets as their matured reason may enable them to prefer."—Carl Holiday in American Mutual Magazine.

GIRL OF 12 SAVES HER COMPANION

(By United Press)

St. Paul, July 13.—Anna Elide, 12, yesterday untangled the body of Marie McGee from weeds in 15 feet of water and brought her to shore where she was revived. The two girls were swimming at Lake Josephine when the younger girl disappeared.

A Wise Move

The wisdom of the county board in voting $230,000 reimbursement bonds for the permanent construction of the trunk highways in this county, was quite forcibly impressed upon many of the local people who anted down to St. Paul and other places the past week. These people unanimously report that in spite of the heavy rains, the roads are in splendid shape all the way to the cities, after they leave this county. While the dirt roads here are in fine shape when dry, it is next to impossible to travel on them after heavy rains. The bonds voted by the county commissioners to grade and gravel our roads will soon put our highways on a par with those in the rest of the state, and our autoists will then be saved a lot of worry, when travelling in wet weather.—Ada Index.

The nature of the jumper frock will vary according to the type of place in which you are going to spend your week-end. Week-End Outfit in One Suitcase

Fewer Costumes Are Needed for Milady's Short Sojourn.

The conquering heroine of the pre-sports era was an earnest believer in the strength of numbers and her week-end sallies into strange countries were never ventured without the accompaniment of a wardrobe that was as extensive as it was pretentious. Those were the days, writes a fashion correspondent in the New York Herald-Tribune, when quantity was the measure of smartness and when no occasion was too trivial to demand a change of costume. Starting with the morning frock, a summer's day which did not witness at least four distinct costumes was counted among the lost, and the enterprising demimonde who could improve upon that number was at once the envy of her sisters and the glowing light of social gatherings. Manifestly, it was impossible to pack the necessary wardrobe within the limited confines of a single suitcase, and the pleasure-bent week-end was compelled to travel, laden heavily with luggage or else run the risk of being occasionally out of the picture.

Those unscientific times are past, due partly to the comparative unavailability of the summer mode, partly to a more enlightened attitude on the part of the gentle traveler, and partly to the general vogue of sportswear. Fashion no longer contents itself with seasonal changes—it is continually undergoing minute evolutions and the hallmark of haute chic demands small monthly wardrobe changes instead of the voluminous semi-annual acquisitions that characterized the past. The modern Parisienne does not burden herself with many clothes at a time—her annual number of frocks is, perhaps, greater than ever before, but they are added at diverse periods as the occasion demands, and as they are added, other costumes are either discarded or revamped to coincide with the smartest and latest dicta of the mode.

Wardrobe Should Fit Suitcase.

The result is a wardrobe which is always chic and never cumbersome and which is comfortably sufficient unto the three days of the sportive week-end. Indeed, the greatest boon to the modern week-end habit has been the general simplification of fashion. You simply cannot pack frills and furbelows into a suitcase. If you appear with a wardrobe trunk or a plurality of suitcases your hostess immediately becomes apprehensive and you can hardly blame her. Obviously, then, the ideal week-end wardrobe must be modified to suit a single suitcase and the present status of the mode makes that task no longer a problem.

Apparently the dressmakers were thinking of the feminine week-end when they evolved those delectable jumper suits that are the prop of every smart woman's existence nowadays. Whether it is made of kasha, crepe de chine or foulard, the jumper frock is the easiest garment to fold that has appeared on the modern horiquirements. These crease less readily than cotton and they shake out into charming folds as soon as they are hung up in a roomy cupboard.

After games the most usual occupation is bridge, and for this you will require a change. But let it be a change into a frock that, but for its color and material, might almost be worn for tennis or golf itself. The smartest clothes of the present season all have that sports allure. Even your dinner dress should have such a simple cut that if you put it on in the daytime nothing could be easier than an impromptu game, quite possible in its straightline simplicity.

A charming idea for the bridge frock is the new jabot idea. It is an excellent suggestion, for there should be something reminiscent of the jabot in your week-end case—it is so typical of the present season's tendencies. It can be carried out in georgette crepe or chiffon and there is no need to adhere severely to plain material. The wild riots of flowers that are scattered over a beige or black ground are a charming feature of summer chiffons. They have this additional advantage—if your rubber is prolonged until the dinner gong sounds, you may appear dressed, fresh, ready for dinner and even the dance following without looking very much as if you had kept on your afternoon frock, for with chiff-zon it is difficult to say where the afternoon ends and the evening begins.

When you intend to include a really formal evening affair during your week-end visit, put in a straight-fringed frock.

You might include a little shawl to throw over the shoulders—it is a real boon on those delightful summer nights when one feels tempted to stroll in the garden between dances. Paris insists on some dainty accessory on these occasions—not from a practical point of view, but because it adds a balancing feminine triviality to the slender lines of the July evening frocks.

Easily Packed Incidentals.

It is advisable to reduce shoes and other accessories to a minimum when you are paying a week-end visit. Keep a small extra bag for your shoes, and you can also use it for last minute remembrances, for even the most methodical of us invariably leave out something of which we think frantically when straps are fastened and keys put into the handbag. Often enough it is just the pair of shoes that goes with the particular frock around which the week-end wardrobe is constructed. Fashion has been liberal in late years by sanctioning gold, silver or blond satin shoes to be worn with every kind of evening gown. Now the mode is changing and the slipper should match the frock. This is an additional complication, but it is essential in a surrounding which places a premium on smart clothes. In less formal places you may choose a pair of blond satin shoes and wear them with your bridge frock as well as in the evening.

Above all other things, remember that costumes worn in Rome should always be Roman. The habit of swimming upstream has no place in modern fashions and it is particularly inappropriate in the short-visiting week-end. If you are going to visit at some mountain resort which prides itself on a certain lack of convention, leave that Patou robe du soir at home and forget that very Parisian chapeau by Lewis. And conversely, if your journey's end be at some watering place where fashion is the alpha and omega, don't attempt to convert the frivolous populace by wearing clothes that are plain and commonplace. The mode has places for its missionaries, but the week-end habitat is not one of them.

WALTER HAGEN AT BREEZY POINT COURSE

BUCKY HARRIS HAS MANY VETS

By HENRY L. FARRELL
(United Press Sports Editor)

New York, July 13.—There is a great cry in the major leagues for youth, youth and more youth. Club owners spend fortunes maintaining a scouting system and developing the prospects that are dug up on the college diamonds and in the bush leagues.

There are few places in the big leagues for an old player—with the exception of Washington.

Bucky Harris, the youthful manager of the world's champion Senators is somewhat of an opportunist. He won a championship last year and he wants another one this year. He is not concerning himself with the construction of a machine that would dominate the American League like the New York Giants have been doing in the National League.

Lart fall when the Senators were established as the world's champions, the critics began to consider their possibilities for the future and it was voted almost unanimously that they might be good for one more season, but that they were too old for a long run.

Instead of enlisting the young blood that everyone insisted he should have, Harris opened the door of the club for nearly every ancient that was placed on the market.

He bought Vean Gregg, one of the most antique pitchers in the business and brought him on from the Pacific Coast League.

He picked up Walter Reuther from the Brooklyn Robins when every other club waived claim on him because he was old and hard to handle.

He grabbed Stanley Coveleskie when Cleveland asked for waivers on a pitcher that was tagged as a has-been a year ago.

He added to his reserve force by claiming Everett Scott, the iron-man shortstop of the New York Yankees and took on Mike McNally after he had been sent to Boston from New York.

Coveleskie won 10 of his first 11 games. Reuther won 9 of his first 12 games and Walter Johnson, another ancient, who was prevailed upon to remain on the big time for at least another year, won 12 out of his first 16 games.

Three of the most advanced pitchers in the league won 31 games for the Senators.

The whole complexion of the National League race would have been changed if Reuther was turning in those victories for the Brooklyn Robins and Cleveland would be much better off with Coveleskie winning 10 games for them.

PIRATES SHOW CLASS IN FIRST CRUCIAL SERIES

PIITBURGH GIVES GIANTS A TOUGH BATTLE, ARE NO FALSE ALARM

SENATORS ARE CONFIDENT AT THIS STAGE OF THE SERIES

New York, July 13.—Surviving the first crucial series of the season the Pittsburgh Pirates are still in first place in the National League pennant race. The New York Giants dropped them in two of the three games that were not stopped by rain, but the weather breaks were in favor of the Giants, who were in desperate straits for pitchers.

It is quite apparent now, with half the season behind, that the Pirates are in the race to stay and that they will win the pennant if the Giants do not repeat.

Pirates Can Hit
The Pirates have the best all around hitting team in the major leagues. They are the fastest club in baseball and their pitching is better than the Giants. The only thing that critics are now holding against the club is its extreme youth.

Moore, Cuyler, Wright and Yde are only sophomores in the big leagues and Charlie Grantham, who does most of the work at first base, cannot be classed as a veteran. The Giants are all veterans and they are used to fighting.

Griffith Confident
The same conditions hold good in the American league with the veteran Washington Senators fighting the youthful Philadelphia Athletics. The Senators now have a lead of three and one-half games and the Athletics are not moving along as smoothly as they did in the first half of the race.

Clark Griffith, the owner of the champion Senators, was the first club owner to claim the pennant this season. He says he has the best team in the league and can't miss. It seems that he is making no wild boast.

GEN. DUNCAN AT MILLE LACS FOR FISHING TRIP

St. Paul, July 13.—Maj. Gen. G. B. Duncan went to Mille Lac Saturday for a week-end fishing trip after his inspection of the R. O. T. C. camp at Ft. Snelling Friday.

Monday Gen. Duncan will return to the fort to close what is expected to be his last official visit to Minnesota. Gen. Duncan is commander of the 9th corps area.

The general is almost 64 years old and under war department regulations he will be placed on the retired list Oct. 10. He is not expected to visit Ft. Snelling again before that time.

During the last day of his stay Gen. Duncan will inspect the medical officers' reserve camp and the officers' reserve camp. There are almost 500 men at the fort for these two camps.

Friday afternoon Gen. Duncan reviewed the 1,200 members of the reserve officers' training corps, who are in camp at Ft. Snelling. The review was the climax to the program for the camp's annual "president's day."

Gen. Duncan complimented Ft. Snelling officers on the way the "military university" was being conducted.

HAGEN HAS WON BRITISH OPEN CHAMPIONSHIP TWICE AND MANY U. S. TOURNAMENTS

FRED BARBER IS STATE CHAM- PION OF CALIFORNIA—MANY GOLFERS EXPECTED

Next Thursday afternoon Walter Hagen and Fred Barber will play an exhibition golf match on the Breezy Point golf links. It was first intended that Hagen was to meet Roscoe Fawcett, Interlachen player, but the latter has now given way to Fred Barber of Los Angeles, state champion of California.

Hagen has won the British Open Championship twice, and has won every important tournament in the United States. For this reason he is considered the peer of all golfers.

The Breezy Point links are in superb condition, and the coming match will certainly attract a large gallery. The usual charge of $1 per person will be made.

Golfers of Duluth, Bemidji, Walker, St. Cloud, Little Falls, etc., have already signified their intention of attending, and Brainerd, in return for the coming attendance of many tourists at its tournament July 19, is expected to send a delegation to Breezy Point.

The biggest tumble of the week in batting percentages was that of left fielder Howard, of the A. O. U. W., who slumped from the lead, with an average of 500, to tenth place, with an average of 364. In the two games of last week he was held hitless by Jones and Engbretson.

L. Thompson of the B. A. C. increased five points, and took the lead, with Peterson of the Y. M. C. A. close on his heels. Peterson jumped from 447 to 478 during the week. T. Stallman of the Elks went from 375 to 433 by hitting four safe blows in Thursday's game.

The Y. M. C. A., though low in team standings, leads the league both in batting and fielding. In batting they hold a good margin over their nearest competitors, while in fielding they lead the Elks by four tenths of a point.

GAME REPLETE WITH ACTION FROM START TO FINISH

HANSON'S BAT BROUGHT HOME BACON IN SECOND INNING

Brainerd defeated Staples Sunday by a score of 2 to 1 in a two hour game that was filled with plenty of action from start to finish. The tilt was played on the Staples diamond.

It was Hanson's bat that brought home the bacon, with a homer in the second frame when he connected with one of Fielder's fast ones, with a man on base.

Jones and Fielder pitched splendid ball throughout the entire game. Jones allowed only four hits to Fielder's six hits.

Brainerd's two runs were earned in two hits, one by Ziebell and the other the four-sacker by Hanson. Staples scored its only run in the fifth inning on a hit, a wild throw by the catcher and another over-throw by Norman in an attempt to catch a runner at second.

Staples play at Brainerd on next Sunday, July 19th. It will be another one of those pitchers' battles, very similar to yesterday's game, and it is hoped with the same results. Fans are promised a mighty interesting contest.

Staples has a first class battery in Fielder and Randorf, and Jones is a twirler to be reckoned with, as yesterday's score proves. Following is the box score:

WALTER HAGEN AT BREEZY POINT COURSE

BUCKY HARRIS HAS MANY VETS

By HENRY L. FARRELL
(United Press Sports Editor)

New York, July 13.—There is a great cry in the major leagues for youth, youth and more youth. Club owners spend fortunes maintaining a scouting system and developing the prospects that are dug up on the college diamonds and in the bush leagues.

There are few places in the big leagues for an old player—with the exception of Washington.

Bucky Harris, the youthful manager of the world's champion Senators is somewhat of an opportunist. He won a championship last year and he wants another one this year. He is not concerning himself with the construction of a machine that would dominate the American League like the New York Giants have been doing in the National League.

Late fall when the Senators were established as the world's champions, the critics began to consider their possibilities for the future and it was voted almost unanimously that they might be good for one more season, but that they were too old for a long run.

Instead of enlisting the young blood that everyone insisted he should have, Harris opened the door of the club for nearly every ancient that was placed on the market.

He bought Vean Gregg, one of the most antique pitchers in the business and brought him on from the Pacific Coast League.

He picked up Walter Reuther from the Brooklyn Robins when every other club waived claim on him because he was old and hard to handle.

He grabbed Stanley Coveleskie when Cleveland asked for waivers on a pitcher that was tagged as a has-been a year ago.

He added to his reserve force by claiming Everett Scott, the iron-man shortstop of the New York Yankees and took on Mike McNally after he had been sent to Boston from New York.

Coveleskie won 10 of his first 11 games. Reuther won 9 of his first 12 games and Walter Johnson, another ancient, who was prevailed upon to remain on the big time for at least another year, won 12 out of his first 16 games.

Three of the most advanced pitchers in the league won 31 games for the Senators.

The whole complexion of the National League race would have been changed if Reuther was turning in those victories for the Brooklyn Robins and Cleveland would be much better off with Coveleskie winning 10 games for them.

PIRATES SHOW

CLASS IN FIRST CRUCIAL SERIES

PITTSBURGH GIVES GIANTS A TOUGH BATTLE, ARE NO FALSE ALARM

SENATORS ARE CONFIDENT AT THIS STAGE OF THE SERIES

By HENRY L. FARRELL

New York, July 13.—Surviving the first crucial series of the season the Pittsburgh Pirates are still in first place in the National league pennant race. The New York Giants dropped them in two of the three games that were not stopped by rain, but the weather breaks were in favor of the Giants, who were in desperate straits for pitchers.

It is quite apparent now, with half the season behind, that the Pirates are in the race to stay and that they will win the pennant if the Giants do not repeat.

Pirates Can Hit

The Pirates have the best all around hitting team in the major leagues. They are the fastest club in baseball and their pitching is better than the Giants. The only thing that critics are now holding against the club is its extreme youth.

Moore, Cuyler, Wright and Yde are only sophomores in the big leagues and Charlie Grantham, who does most of the work at first base, cannot be classed as a veteran. The Giants are all veterans and they are used to fighting.

Griffith Confident

The same conditions hold good in the American league with the veteran Washington Senators fighting the youthful Philadelphia Athletics. The Senators now have a lead of three and one-half games and the Athletics are not moving along as smoothly as they did in the first half of the race.

Clark Griffith, the owner of the champion Senators, was the first club owner to claim the pennant this season. He says he has the best team in the league and can't miss. It seems that he is making no wild boast.

GEN. DUNCAN AT MILLE LACS FOR FISHING TRIP

St. Paul, July 13.—Maj. Gen. G. B. Duncan went to Mille Lac Saturday for a week-end fishing trip after his inspection of the R. O. T. C. camp at Ft. Snelling Friday.

Monday Gen. Duncan will return to the fort to close what is expected to be his last official visit to Minnesota. Gen. Duncan is commander of the 9th corps area.

The general is almost 64 years old and under war department regulations he will be placed on the retired list Oct. 10. He is not expected to visit Ft. Snelling again before that time.

During the last day of his stay Gen. Duncan will inspect the medical officers' reserve camp and the officers' reserve camp. There are almost 500 men at the fort for these two camps.

Friday afternoon Gen. Duncan reviewed the 1,200 members of the reserve officers' training corps, who are in camp at Ft. Snelling. The review was the climax to the program for the camp's annual "president's day."

Gen. Duncan complimented Ft. Snelling officers on the way the "military university" was being conducted.

Philadelphia, July 13.—Jack Quinn, veteran American league spit ball pitcher, has been obtained by Connie Mack by the waiver route, according to word received here today.

Quinn will join Mack immediately and will go on the western trip with the Athletics who are foundering.
